On Saturday Blondin walked on the rope stretched across the Ningara River on stilts, for the benefit of the Prince of Wales, who desired him in vain not to do so. The Buffalo (N. Y.) Commercial gives this account of the thrilling feat:

All were waiting and looking eagerly for the last and greatest act of the day's performances—the stilt-walking. We think that all who witnessed this feat will agree with us in pronouncing it one of the most terrible and daring ever attempted by mortal man. Many who were there to see would frequently turn their eyes from him during his passage, fearful lest, as they gazed, the intropid man might miss his precarious footing, and be precipitated into the seething abyss.

The stilts are slenderly made, are about two feet in hight—the bottoms having three iron prongs resembling a trident in shape, the wooden portion being covered with sliver leaf. An incident occurred when Blondin was a short distance from the American shore, which produced a thrill of horror in the breasts of all who witnessed it. It was not generally understood that, in the passage over he was to make three leaps on his stilts. All were waiting and looking eagerly for

The first time he attempted it, the center and longer prong in the bottom of the stilts. and longer prong in the bottom of the stilts caught against one of the guys, tripping him slightly. All held their breath in horror for an instent, thinking he had fallen. But the daring and self-possessed performer lighted safely astride the cable, and looked toward either shore as if nothing had happened. In coming suddenly and violently upon the rope his balancing pole—as before stated a very heavy one—was cracked and strained, so that he dure not attempt a repetition of the leap, lest it should be broken.

The task of regarning his standing position on the rope with the stilts on, was seemingly a most difficult one, and many expressed doubt as to the success of the attempt. But with him, as with the sunning empt. But with him, as with the sunning tempt. But with him, as with the cunning old Cardinal, there seems to be no such word as fail, and after two or three trials the difficulty was overcome. As he proceeded, step by step, the spectators gained confidence, and those who had expressed doubt and apprehension, breathed freer as he approached the termination of his voyage.

When safely on terra firma, a shout of ex-When safely on terra firma, a shout of exultation went up followed by cheers and clapping of hands; and again he was greeted by the Prince and the Duke of New Castle, and others of the party, the former expressing to Mr. Blondin, in French; his astonishment and delight at the unparalleled feats. The Prince, the Duke, and others, took the stilts in their hand and examined them, repeating at the same time their encomrums upon the professor's skill and daring.

EXTRACRDINARY FUNERAL CUSTOMS BRAZIL.—When a person dies in Rio the front entrance of the house is closed—the only occasion when such a thing happens.
The law requires the body to be buried in twenty-four bours. If the deceased was married, a festion of black cloth and gold is hung over the street door; for unmarried, lilac and black; for children, white or blue, or gold. Coffins for the married are also black, but for young persons they are red, scarlet, or blue. Fond of dress while living, the Brazilians are buried in their best, and punctilious to the last degree, they enforce etiquette after death.

Formerly it was the custom in Rio, and still is so in the interior, to carry young corpses upright in procession through the streets, when, but for the closed eyes, a stranger could hardly believe the figure before him, with painted cheeks, hair blowing in the wind, in silk stocking and shoes, and his raiment sparkling with jowels, and his raiment sparkling with jowels, and his raiment sparkling with jowels, and resting the other quite naturally on some artificial support, could be a dead child Large sums are occasionally expended in Large sums are occasionally expended in dresses and jewels for the dead. Scandalous Scene in a New York Church.—Trouble has for some time existed in the Graham-avenue M. P. Church, at New York. How it originated, or the exist cause of the difficulty, has not yet been disclosed. It seems, however, that some two weeks ago, at a prayer-meeting, the pustor of the church, the Rev. Mr. Bell, "spoke out in meeting," and told the congregation, in very plain terms, that they owed him money, and must pay it, for he needed it to get bread for himself and family. Some of the members sympathized with him, and wanted to know why he had not sooner made his wants known. The trustees were indignant at the course their pastor had pursued, and declared that the salary had been overdrawn, and that even if any thing been overdrawn, and that even if any thing was due he shouldn't have spoken about it was due he shouldn't have spoken about it in meeting. An angry discussion ensued, somebody calling somebody else a liar, and somebody else said the frustees were a pack of gamblers. This all happened in open meeting, and since then the religious opera-tions of the church have been suspended, and the pastor notified that his services are no longer required. no longer required.

ANTIQUE SPECIMENS OF DESIGN IN GAUL. In a cave on the banks of the river Charente, in France, in the department of Vienne, M. in France, in the department of Vienne, M. Joly has discovered a conglomerate of a recent geological formation, which contains among pebbles and natural cement which compose it, a considerable quantity of objects worked by the hand of man, in flint or in bone, such as knives and arrow-heads. On a fragment of polished bone, broken out of the mass, he has found designs of two quadrupeds in profile; they appear to be deer. This is certainly the most ancient specimen of design yet found in Gaul, and if we may judge by the very crude nature of the instruments found in the same place, and by the absence of metal in any form in the conglomerate, it may be attributed to the very first age of civilization. All these specimens have been deposited in the Museum at Cluny. Cluny.

Southern Antedilluvians.—A correspondent of the Charleston Courier, writing from Conwayboro', S. C., says: "I know an old gentleman aged seventy-three years, having five sons, and all baye families. Not one of them have ever owed $1, ever took a drink of spirituous liquors, ever used a cup of coffee, ever used profane language, ever was 100 miles from home, ever wasted for any thing, ever lost his vote in an election; are all Methodists and Breckinridge Democrats, and hate snakes and tobacco."

Later from Pike's Peak. Sr. Joseph, September 20.—The Pike's Peak Express resched here last night, with $45.899 in dust, besdes some $49,000 or $50,-000 in the hands of passengers.

Ou in the hands of passengers.

Business at Denver City is fast reviving, and the streets present a vary lively appearance. Hot weather being about over, and cold weather coming on, parties are beginning to arrive from the mountains to purchase their winter supplies.

Discoveries of silver continue to be made which promise to yield well. A crevice from five to six hundred feet in length, where silver shows itself to the surface in solid ore, is reported to have been discovered. Several assays have been made with different results.

aways have been made with different results, ranging from $100 to $1,700 per ton, and pure silver in large quantities is found in sluices in the Big Blue. Nuggets weighing one and a half ounces have been taken out. Other reports are in circulation, that the ore is worthless. The silver mines are being inspected, and if they yield any where near as reported, many millions of dollars will be realized yearly.

Gold claims continue to pay as largely as ever. The coaches to and from Denver are crowded every trin OMAHA, N. T., September 20.—By a messenger just in from the plains, we learn that the telegraph poles are set within ninety miles of Fort Kearney, and although they have to be hauled fifty miles ou the western portion of the line, the Company are putting them up at the rate of five and six miles per day. The poles will be up to Fort Kearney by the middle of October, and the wire about the first of November. The Company have pushed the construction thus rapidly in order to have the line ready to transmit the November election news by pony express from Fort Kearney, which will insure a gain-of nearly two days upon the present time.

Mr. Sibley's bid for the Pacific Telegraph

Mr. Sibley's bid for the Pacific Telegraph contract is the only one now before the Sec-retary of the Treasury, the others having been withdrawn. His was the highest, being the maximum limit. Some preliminary legal questions, however, remain to be decided, but the probability is the contract will be awarded to him. The Secretary, it is known, is desirous of placing the work in such bands as will at once undertake to com-

A STRICTLY PLOUS DOO .- The Auburn (Ala.) Sketchbook tells the following dog Story: A good friend of ours, living a few miles from town—W. J. Nunn—everybody knows him—told us a few days ago of a remarkable dog of his. He is a small dog, but for three years, with only three or four exceptions, rain or shine, hot or cold, with company or without it, he has not failed to attend divine without it, he has not failed to attend divine service every Sabbath at the neighboring church. He seems to know instinctively when the time comes. It happened once that the dog had gone in the early part of the week to spend a few days at the house of a relative of Mr. Nunn's, some miles from home. When Saturday evening came, however, he went home, and as usual on the next morning presented himself at church. And it makes no difference whether any of the family go to church or not, he is always at his post. Moreover, when there, he behaves himself as a good dog should. He stations himself near the door, and if any profane hog or cow comes rambling toe profane hog or cow comes rambling toe near, he as noiselessy as possible drives them away. And what is remarkable, considering the customs prevailing in many of our churches, he has hever been seen to laugh or talk, or try to attract attention or disturb the service, during all the time.

THE TROT BETWEEN FLORA TEMPLE AND ETHAN ALLEN-The Little Bay Mare Again Victorious,-The most attractive feature of Victorious.—The most attractive feature of the Kalamazoo (Mich.) Horse-show, was the trot between "Flora Temple" and "Ethan Allen," which took place on Saturday. The village of Kalamazoo turned out en masse, and the whole county-side is represented as having been depopulated in consequence of the anticipated trot.

The mare beat the horse without trouble the first two hears, and on the third it was apparent that "Ethan" was no match for her, and also, that he was evidently out of condition, and the judges said, though he would trot around the track on the third heat, it was impossible for him to make the time agreed upon. The President announced this from the stand previous to the start for the third heat. The mare and horse started, but this time "Flora" was upon her mettle, at the start, and went off with a rush that carried her to the quarter-pole in 35%, and to the half-mile in 1:09%. The mile was completed in 2:23, being within 3% seconds of the famous time made last year.

A Wealthy Female Miner Robbed and Murdeered A widow lady named Mary Emsley, aged seventy, was mysteriously murdered at her residence in Stepney, England, about the 15th ult. She lived alone, had no servants, and was of miserly, filthy habits, though very rich. She owned and rented several houses, and was in receipt of an annual income of $25,000. Some persons who had done work for her, repeatedly knocking without getting an answer, led to an examination of the premises, when she was found up stairs, her skull broken, and lying in a congulated pool of blood. She usually had large sums of money by her, but was found robbed of every penny, and the house stripped of furniture it contained of value. A WEALTHY FRMALE MINER ROBBED AND

The Pewalty of Osculary Luxuries.—
Recently an enterprising lover was condemned by a New York Court to pay a fine of $20 for baving embraced a widow lady against her will. Not long ago, in a parish below Quebec, a young man of nineteen years, named G. A., wishing to testify the affection with which a damsel of the neighbood had inspired him, seized her as she was going quietly along the public way, and in spite of her resistance, gave her a salute upon the cheek. The young girl, being unaccustomed to this sort of attention, and a little offended by the manner of the deed, brought a civil action against him; but, before the case came to trial, by an amicable arrangement, she compromised the matter for $50. THE PENALTY OF OSCULARY LUXURIES.

A New Status By a Vermost Sculptos. The Vermont sculptor, Mead, whose native genius first took form in snow—a model afterward ordered in marble by Nicholas Longworth, of this city—has lately produced an exquisite statuette of a "Green Mountain Girl," in Vermont marble, of which a New Orleans lady is the porchaser. He is now engaged on a colonial statue of Ethan Allen, fourteen feet high, ordered by the Vermont Legislature.

THE ROLING CLASSES IN FRANCE.—The two classes that rule France at the present moment are the soldiers and the aristocracy of the wealth, and Louis Napoleon is a favorite with both—with the first, because he has led them to victory in the field; and with the second, because his strong arm is the best protection of the rights of property. DAMAGES FROM LOCUSTS IN NEW RUSSIA.

DANAGES FROM LOCUSTS IN NEW RUSSIA.—
In New Russia, locusts are causing a great deal of loss. They march in enormous masses, often covering a space twelve utils by two, and have at last crossed the Duelste into Bessarable. Ten thousand men from the previoue attempted to stop them on the bank of the Duelster, but were maskle to dec. Every possible means of destruction has been put in operation, but without effect.
